1. Things That Went Well

- Bi-weekly meetings
- Division of labour between backend/ frontend
- Learning from one another

2. Things That Could Have Gone Better

- Project setup communication
- (Daily) Communication
- Deadline close to due date

3. Things That Surprised Us

- Time required to integrate code, fix git merges, push release to master

4. Lessons Learned

- Set deadlines earlier
- Communicate daily (even if it's only a little)
- Check in on each other's code to make sure it makes sense

5. Final Thoughts

Things to Keep

- Meet bi-weekly on voice chat
- Keep dividing labour between back end and front end

Things to Change

- Daily check-ins
- Earlier deadlines
- Move to single application coding
